Designing outdoor lighting full of atmosphere takes experience. It isn't enough to place random lamps somewhere in the garden and to hope that it will somehow look nice.

After all, you let the professionals build a house. To avoid disappointment you are best off hiring an experienced lighting designer such as Stewart Hawker, who has more than twenty years of experience in the field. For over a decade the British born citizen worked in distribution and production at a well-known lamp manufacturer in California, training landscape specialists during this time – such as, for example, architects, designers and entrepreneurs in lighting placement, installation and maintenance. These valuable experiences inspired Hawker to found his own lighting company “Shawker Landscape Lighting”, which offers everything in one place. For another ten years the lighting expert applied his talents in the mansion suburbs of Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Palm Springs and was able to convince numerous prominent clients of his well thought-out lighting design systems. A few months ago Stewart Hawker was drawn back to Europe and he moved to Mallorca with his family. Here he wants to add to his successes with his company “Shawker Landscape Lighting” and expand his know-how in the field of landscape lighting.

Shawker Landscape Lighting is at the forefront of technological progress in a continuously developing, exciting area of business, yet never forgets to carefully observe the customers' wishes.
